PILLSWORTH AND HARNEN IN JAIL

Kingston Youths Beat Up a Newburgh Fruit Dealer Sunday Afternoon and Get a Taste of Newburgh Justice—Thirty Days in Jail Each.

James Pillsworth, 23 years old, and James P. Harnen, 29 years old, both Kingston chauffeurs, were each sentenced to thirty days in the Orange county jail in Newburgh this morning when they pleaded guilty in police court there to assaulting Pellegro Cella, a fruit dealer at No. 6 Colden street, that city, Sunday afternoon.

Both young men had gone to Newburgh that day on the excursion of baseball fans on the steamer Sea Gate. From the story as brought out in police court Pillsworth was intoxicated. The pair had gone into the fruit store and made some purchases and on the way out of the store Pillsworth made a grab for some bananas and seized several.

He was seen by Mr. Cella, who is an elderly man, and the fruit dealer stepped in front of Pillsworth and asked him to pay for the fruit he had taken. In reply Pillsworth struck Cella, and in the rumpled Harnen came to the assistance of Pillsworth and between the pair of them they gave the old man a severe beating up before they were placed under arrest.

This morning Mr. Cella had recovered sufficiently to appear in court against the two, who, after considerable talk of hiring lawyers to defend them, finally decided to plead guilty, which they did and as a result they will be absent from Kingston for a month as the guests of Orange county.

TUNNEL SHAFTS HIT BY STORM

The storm which passed over Ulster county last Friday afternoon was much more severe in other places than in this vicinity, particularly in Greene county.

In the vicinity of Prattville and Lexington there were two storms, which resulted in putting shafts five and six of the Shandaken tunnel out of commission temporarily.

The first storm visited the northern Catskills about noon and the second storm came three hours later, about the time that Ulster county was getting its baptism of wind and rain. Both storms were accompanied by a brilliant electrical display. Telephone communication with Tannersville, Hunter and Cairo was re-established Saturday morning, but with Jewett, Lexington and Prattville the repairs were not completed until late in the day.

BEHIND-PRISON BARS THE TOPIC

Of the Address of The Rev. John Steele At The Roundout Presbyterian Church Sunday Evening—He Spoke At County Jail That Afternoon—Big Presbyterian Day.

Sunday was a big day at the Roundout Presbyterian Church with a scholarly and interesting sermon on the topic "The Sermon That Failed" delivered by the Rev. Dr. Charles G. Ellis, pastor of the church, at the morning service; with rally day services and a special program in the Sunday school; and in the evening the Rev. John Steele, associate secretary of the board of temperance and moral welfare of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, who delivered a moving address on "Behind Prison Bars," outlining the work being carried on by the Presbyterian Church among the inmates of the penal institutions of the country.

Every year at this time rally day services are held by the Sunday school and Sunday an especially attractive program had been arranged by Superintendent Fred L. Van Deusen. The address was delivered by H. E. Brown, and it proved entertaining and informing. Miss Virginia Loskamp, contralto and choir director, and Frank Finley, baritone, sang a delightful duet, and the choir rendered an anthem. The special musical program by the school under the leadership of Miss Loskamp was also especially good.

Dr. Steele, who is touring the country visiting the penal institutions, reached Kingston late that afternoon, and visited the county jail where he addressed the prisoners, who had been assembled for the meeting in the supervisors' room in the court house. He delivered a most stirring address and held their close interest.

At the evening service in the Roundout Presbyterian Church he told of the work being done by the church in endeavoring to assist inmates in the penal institutions. He said that Illinois had the best parole system in force in the country for no prisoner was allowed out on parole until a job had first been obtained for him. Over fifty per cent of the inmates of the institutions were "repeaters," those who were serving more than one term having committed some overt act after being released. He believed that charge of the institutions should not be placed in the hands of politicians, but that best results would be obtained by having trained prison and social work workers in charge of the institutions. In closing he said that after all was said and done it was religion, and religion alone, that would in the end touch and change the man and woman inmate of our penal institutions.

HUBBY CAME BACK

And Was Arrested, But Wife Withdrew Complaint.

Several days ago Mrs. Harold Murdock of No. 6 Thomas street swore out a warrant for the arrest of her husband charging him with failure to support herself and four months old child. Murdock was out of town but returned home Saturday night and was arrested on the warrant Sunday afternoon by Policemen Gess. This morning in police court Judge Schrick to withdraw the charge as her husband had promised to support her. Judge Schrick allowed the charge to be withdrawn and discharged Murdock.

Sam Stone and George Duncan, two of the seventeen parkers on Wall street, rounded up Friday night by the police, entered pleas of guilty to violation of the parking ordinance this morning, and were discharged with a warning to obey the ordinance in the future.

SPECIAL SERVICES

M. E. Evangelist Holding Meetings at East Kingston.

The Rev. W. F. Maggs, conference evangelist and his singer, J. N. Stahlter, started a week of special service Sunday at the East Kingston Methodist Episcopal Church. The Rev. Maggs preached acceptably at the morning and evening services and the singing proved to be an important part of the service. It was a rather unusual occurrence to have persons give themselves to Christ the first day of service. The congregation was large and everybody was pleased. There will be services tonight, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 7:30. Tuesday being the day of the district conference at Roxbury, the services will be omitted.

Our Growing Population.

The following births have been reported to the board of health:

P-T-A. School No. 2.

The Parent-Teachers Association of No. 2 School will hold a sale of home made cake, candy and cream on the school grounds Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Any donations will be gratefully received and the patronage of the public is solicited. If rainy on Wednesday, the sale will be held on the first clear day following.

CAN'T REDUCE GAS RATE IN NEWBURGH

Public Service Commission Refuses To Allow Any Change Until Test Suit of Rochester Against Service Charge Is Determined—Kingston's Case Up October 5.

The Public Service Commission had denied the application of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Co. for permission to introduce a new gas rate in its territory. The commission took the position that the new rate included a service charge, and since Rochester had questioned the legality of this, and has brought a test case in the state courts, it would not at this time allow the introduction of any new rate which embraced such charge.

As a result the expected decrease in the cost of gas for light and fuel which would have come to the great majority of the users of gas in Newburgh and Poughkeepsie will not be had immediately, the bills being on the same basis as in the past. The company, however, announced that should the commission eventually give consent to the new rate, it will be made operative from Sept. 12 and there would be refunds of amounts paid in excess of the new rate.

The public service commission will hear the complaints of the city of Kingston and the Kingston Taxpayers' Association against the rates now in effect here in New York city on October 5.

CLAPPER RETAINS TOURING CAR

The case of the Kalteux & Company, Inc., against Charles Clapper was tried before Supreme Court Justice Platt and a jury in Poughkeepsie Friday last.

The action was to replevy a Chandler touring car which the plaintiff claimed to own by virtue of a conditional bill of sale executed by the original purchaser of the car. The car was sold by the original purchaser, one Frank L. Price of Schenectady to Patrick Baldwin of Ritton and Mr. Baldwin sold it to Mr. Clapper, the defendant in the action. Price was recently arrested by the Ulster county authorities for selling the car and his case is awaiting the action of the grand jury.

Mr. Price, a witness for the defendants, testified that he had executed the conditional bill of sale to Mr. Kalteux, an officer of the plaintiff corporation, to aid Kalteux in covering up a financial shortage of Kalteux in his corporation. And that he in fact had fully paid for the automobile. A receipt substantiating his version of the transaction was read in evidence. He also claimed that Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Clapper were purchasers in good faith and did not know of the existence of the conditional bill of sale. Mr. Kalteux denied Price's version of the transaction and admitted on cross-examination that former proceedings against Price had been dismissed in Schenectady.

The defendant Clapper demanded the return of the car, which was taken from him by the plaintiff corporation last July, and asked for damages for retention of the car by the plaintiff from that time to date.

The jury brought in a verdict for the defendant, awarding him ownership of the car, or its value, and also $500 damages for loss of use of the car for the period during which it has been in possession of the plaintiff.

Edward Conger of Poughkeepsie and Horatio Glen, Jr. and Frank Fryer of Schenectady appeared for the plaintiff. A. Raymond Aldrich of Poughkeepsie, DuBois J. Gillette of Kingston and the Hon. Harold E. Blodgett of Schenectady appeared for the defendant.

BAPTISTS MEET HERE TOMORROW

A large attendance is expected at the sixty-third annual meeting of the Hudson River Central Baptist Association, which begins Tuesday at the First Baptist Church, Albany avenue, the Rev. A. S. Cole, pastor, and which will continue Wednesday.

Tuesday morning there will be a pastors' conference, the Rev. L. A. Mitchell, presiding.

In the afternoon there will be business, a discussion and an address by the Rev. H. W. Sherwood of Rhinebeck; a woman's conference, and Young People's Union, Jesse D. W. West of Poughkeepsie, presiding; words of welcome by Irvin B. Van Houten of this city with response by the president. After roll call of societies and appointment of committees the Rev. Charles W. Briggs, director of Young People's work, will speak on "The Goals of a Young People's Society." He will be followed by an address by the Rev. Clarence Hill Frank, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Poughkeepsie. The afternoon session will close with a session of the domestic mission board, the Rev. A. E. Finn, president, pastor of the Moulton Memorial Church, Newburgh.

The evening session will be devoted to the Young People's Union, when reports will be read, election of officers, introductions, etc., and a solo by Mrs. A. T. Mullen of Middletown, N. Y. Milton G. Evans, president of the Crozier Theological Seminary, Chester, Pa., will make an address, "Leadership in the Baptist Church."

At the meeting of the association Wednesday morning, when the main business will be transacted, the Rev. James Bristow of Warwick, the moderator, will preside.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Tucker-Schneller.

Harry W. Tucker of New York city and Miss Joanna E. Schneller of Paterson, N. J. were quietly married on September 26 by the Rev. F. B. Seeley of the Fair Street Reformed Church.

Tiger-Bassett.

F. A. Tigar and Mrs. Edna Bassett, both of this city, were united in marriage on Sunday, September 25, at Ramsey, N. J. They will reside in this city where Mr. Tigar is engaged in the taxi business on the Strand.

Engagement Announced.

Martin Huffer of No. 16 St. Mary's street, announce the engagement of his daughter, Agnes, to William Greenwald of Red Hook. The wedding will take place in the near future. Mr. Greenwald is proprietor of the Red Hook Baking Company.

Riel-Cranston.

A very quiet and pretty wedding took place at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. George M. Cranston of this city on Saturday evening, October 1st at 7:45 o'clock, when their daughter, Miss Irene Ruth, became the bride of Elwood W. Riel, the father of the bride being the officiating clergyman. Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played by Mrs. William J. Cranston, aunt of the bride. The bride was becomingly gowned in a dress of pink georgette crepe trimmed with grosgrain ribbon to match. She carried a bouquet of white roses. There were no attendants. The double ring ceremony was used. Only the immediate relatives of both families were present. The groom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Riel of this city, is a graduate of Syracuse University and a member of the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity. After a short trip to points south Mr. and Mrs. Riel will make their home in New Paltz where the groom holds a responsible position as superintendent of the Dairymen's League Creamery. They will be at home after November 1st.

Scudder-Randall.

Hoffman-Randall.

The Randall House at Mount Tremper, in the Catskills, was the scene of a double home wedding on Sunday afternoon, two daughters of Mrs. Grace M. Randall being the brides, Miss Hannah Eliza Randall and Samuel Dudley Scudder, Jr., of this city, and Miss Frances Louise Randall and Frederick Hoffman of this city, were the contracting parties, the marriage ceremony being conducted by the Rev. R. P. Ingersoll, pastor of the Wurts Street Baptist Church, in a most impressive manner. During the ceremony Mrs. Ingersoll, at the piano, played softly "O Promise Me" and at its close Mendelssohn's "Wedding March." Mr. and Mrs. Scudder, Traver being a sister of the bride, were Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Churchwell of Ulster Park, Mrs. Churchwell being the sister of Mr. Hoffman. After congratulations from the members of their immediate families, who constituted those present, and the serving of light refreshments, Mr. and Mrs. Scudder and Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman set forth on an extended wedding journey by automobile, and the usual shower of rice and confetti. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Scudder will reside at No. 79 Lucas avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman at No. 142 Park street. Mr. Scudder is a member of the firm of Scudder & Scudder and Mr. Hoffman is a member of the editorial staff of the Freeman.

JAPAN DAY AT BIGELOW HOME

Neighbors, Friends and Distinguished Guests Take Part in Annual Gathering at Which Japanese Consul General Explains That His People Are Like Others Under Skin.

A perfect autumnal day, the harvest season of the year's fulfillment; the gathering of friends and acquaintances of ripening years; the coming together of representatives of two nations, whose mutual friendship has matured through the passing years; were the out-standing features of "Japan Day," at the Bigelow Homestead, Malden-on-Hudson, on Saturday, October first, 1921. It was two years since there had been a similar gathering at this hospitable American homestead, and all friends who could possibly do so, gladly accepted this season's invitation from the distinguished and genial host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Poulitney Bigelow. Consequently there were present, as always, famous men and women of arts and letters; artists and jurists of renown; representative musicians and men of the medical profession; men of political acumen and preachers of power; financiers and farmers whose broad acres entitles them to the name of "agriculturalists;" etc., etc., almost ad infinitum. Besides there were a good many folks; "just folks," to quote from the Roosevelt.

Outdoor, basket lunch was the order of the day at twelve o'clock, and the informal, picnic atmosphere lent itself to the happy renewing of former friendships and the forming of new ones. In spite of the well filled baskets, the hospitality of the homestead and its present occupants could not be entirely restrained, but bubbled over in the shape of picturesque baskets of delicious fruit; mouth-watering home-made cake and revivifying hot coffee and tea. Then the host's "big stick," rapped and Poulitney Bigelow happily and felicitously introduced the participants of the program.

The program was opened with the appearance of the Malden school children, headed by a winsome lad and lass on horseback, wearing the costumes of America and Japan and escorted by two youthful Americans wearing the red, white and blue. Led by their teacher, the children sang, unusually well, "America, the Beautiful." Then Melville A. Clarke, the inventor of the modern Irish harp, played the Japanese national anthem, "Kimigayo," after which Mrs. Blake charmingly sang the same, with the harp accompaniment, the entire audience standing. Then all joined in singing America, both Mr. and Mrs. Clarke accompanying the singing with two harps. The children were then dismissed to the region near the summer house overlooking the river, a land of ice cream bricks and "two-pieces of cake apiece." But it was worthy of note that many of the youngsters were sufficiently interested to quietly steal back and quietly listen to the speechifying.

Mr. Bigelow introduced Mrs. Holcomb of Boston, who accompanied by Mr. Clarke on one of his marvelous modern Irish harps, sang to the delight of all, "Annie Laurie," and "Swanee River."

Prof. Edward Everett Hale was the first speaker of the afternoon, whose happy duty and privilege it was in behalf of Union College, to thank Consul General Kumasaki for the highly prized gift from Japan to the college of Japanese butterflies, mounted in cases.

Then appearing in the identical costume of the Irish bards of the seventh century, when they were the purveyors of the news since there were no newspapers, and playing upon a genuine Irish harp of that period—a beautiful in tone, too—Mr. Clark came and played some old and lovely Irish melodies.

Then Mr. Bigelow confided to the guests of the occasion that the reason that he had been out of the country for such a period recently—when to so out of one's country was a more or less suspicious act—had been that he might renew his acquaintance with Japan. Touching very briefly on the now often quoted history of the American-Japanese treaty of 1853, a treaty of amity and commerce, the speaker defied anyone to prove wherein Japan had ever been false to America or repudiated her treaties. Having known Japan for over forty years; having been a guest in Japanese houses, and having entertained Japanese guests in his own home, Mr. Bigelow said he failed to find the grounds upon which were based the widespread prejudice against Japan, unless it were to be found in our "yellow" journalism. During his recent visitation to every dependency of the Japanese Colonial Government, Mr. Bigelow found the greatest of real progress in fact he noted well that Japan had recently rendered the world the invaluable service of keeping her own part of the world safe for civilization—and open-mindedness. Under those circumstances, Mr. Bigelow said he took particular pleasure in introducing the speaker of the occasion, who had come to us from the heart of Russia, where he was imprisoned under the Bolshevik regime when Moscow was in a state of siege. Finally making his escape he came to New York. "The speaker," the Imperial Consul General of Japan, the Hon. K. Kumasaki, ranked among the highest and strongest men of the land which he represented," said Mr. Bigelow in introducing that representative to a most cordially welcoming audience.

Mr. Kumasaki, after referring to Mr. Bigelow's long acquaintance with and friendship for Japan, and adding a sketch of the history of his country, returned back to the occasion of his first emigration, 449 years before.

TO DANCE FOR CHILDREN'S SAKE

Those who a year ago attended the dance given for the dependent children of Ulster county, will remember it as a delightful occasion, and will learn with pleasure that arrangements have been made to hold another such affair for the same cause.

Friday, October 14, is the date, and the spacious armory is the place for this ball. Balle's orchestra of twelve or more pieces will furnish the finest dance music available, and that in itself will draw those who attend for the mere pleasure derived from the occasion. Tickets are sold however, not merely to the dance-lovers, but to the great number of people who are interested in the cause for which this dance is given.

The dependent children of Ulster county are looked after by the county agent, Miss Davis, who gives her time to investigating the cases of children who are living in improper surroundings or who are left without support from relatives.

For such children she finds homes, temporary or permanent, where they are cared for and properly trained and educated. These members of the coming generation will be our future citizens, valued or worthless according to their early influence.

If you want to help be a patron of this dance. Don't wait to be urged. Call on Miss Helen Westbrook who is the manager, and give her your name and contribution.

Christ, from which the dynasty has descended in an unbroken line, took up the visit of Commodore Perry, in 1853. Prior to that time, said the consul, the Island Empire was a hermit nation and for 237 years up to then had had uninterrupted peace, a longer period without war than any modern nation.

What surprised Mr. Kumasaki here was the conception in many quarters that Japan is a sort of fairyland where people live in paper houses, sip tea and not infrequently dance to the music of the comic opera "The Mikado." This is antiquated and wrong. On the other hand, another notion which has been gaining ground is equally untrue—that the Japanese are the opposite of innocuous and are a warlike race. While the could talk all night telling what the real Japanese people were, the speaker summed it up in the few words, "They are just human beings, without any special virtues or more faults than other races."

The countless friends and sane minded people on both sides of the ocean, Mr. Kumasaki said in conclusion, must see to it that there is mutual understanding, sympathy, good will and perpetual peace between the two peoples, despite the ravings of alarmists, jingoists and yellow journalists.

The geniality and sincerity of the speaker held the closest attention of the audience which was enthusiastic in its applause.

The host then called on Dr. George Chandler to thank the Consul, in behalf of those present for his presence and his able discourse. In so calling on him, Mr. Bigelow took note of the rare efficiency of the State Troopers of Japan as he recently saw them, and also of the rare efficiency of our State Troopers, whose organization was the inspiration of Dr. Chandler.

Dr. Chandler entitled his remarks "How to Keep Well." He named three things that will hinder any normal man or woman from keeping well, and they were, "Accidents or injuries; infections, and now growths." His warnings though trite were valuable and always seemed needed. He warned of the imperative need of immediate attention to small, very small accidents or injuries which may become the culture bed for the second infection. Keeping the teeth in good condition; the inside of the body as well as the outside, clean—and he was particularly emphatic about eating no uncooked vegetables or fruits when traveling and having the same thoroughly cleaned when used at home was deemed necessary. Another warning was against following what the speaker called health or disease fads.

Then he gave a piece of constructive advice, which if heeded from the house-tops in season and out of season and for a time, would do incalculable service in solving the reconstruction problem. Dr. Chandler urged, insisted, that to keep well, everyone should work, and work and still work, morning, noon and night for one's own good, for the good of the home, for the good of their church, their country, state and nation, for the good of all. When such a spirit of work animates people there will be no cases of insanity and nervous and countless other ills. Dr. Chandler closed with the following apt quotation from Winchcombe Beade:

"Life is bottled sunshine; every breath is a sunbeam and death is the bottle which you uncork the bottle."

The host and hostess were in receipt of many letters and telegrams of regret, among them being a telegram from Ambassador Baron Hulin, whom Mr. Bigelow met in Tokyo, and which read as follows:

"Accept my congratulations on your gratifying idea of a Japanese Day which I sincerely trust will have a brilliant success and do much to strengthen friendship between America and Japan."

The memorable day was brought to a fitting close when the Rev. Mr. Murr of Malden pronounced the benediction.

Before the guests departed they were bidden by Mr. Bigelow to the 1922 celebration in October of that year.

FINAL DETAILS OF C. OF C. MEETING

The Chamber of Commerce committee on arrangements for the Hudson Valley Federated Chamber of Commerce convention, October 6, meets at the Chamber of Commerce rooms today to arrange final plans for the reception, luncheon and business session of the convention.

Out of town reservations for the luncheon which is to be held Thursday at 12:30 in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium continue to come in.

Owing to the state-wide and national interest in the waterway problems which form an important part of the program for the convention, New York city will be strongly represented in addition to the 27 cities and villages of the Hudson Valley which hold membership in the Federation.

The growth of the Hudson Valley Federated Chamber of Commerce from small beginnings five years ago until it is now the representative organization of the Hudson river valley has brought about better acquaintance, united effort and cordial cooperation among the cities of the Hudson valley.

The Federation has been the chief instrument in affecting progress toward the establishment of barge canal terminals at Kingston, Poughkeepsie, Newburgh and Yonkers.

Thursday's meeting will be the first convention of the Federation to be held at Kingston in the past four years. A large attendance of Kingston men and women at both the luncheon and business session is anticipated.

In order that all Kingstonians wishing to attend the luncheon may be accommodated, it is desirable that tickets be secured from members of the ticket committee or reservations made immediately at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, phone 504.

PVT. NAGELE'S BODY DUE SOON

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Nagele of Glen street have been notified by the war department that the body of their son, Private William H. Nagele, who was killed in action in France, will reach Hoboken about October 6, and they have requested the department that the remains be sent to Kingston for funeral and interment.

Private Nagele left Kingston on April 30, 1918, and was later reported missing in action "somewhere in France" since September 23, 1918. He was a member of Company C, One Hundred and Forty-seventh Infantry.

His brother, Private Jacob Nagele, also died in service while in camp at Camp McCullough, Alabama.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Charles A. Davis, for a number of years conducting a high class meat market at 438 Broadway, having succeeded the late David Winans, his father-in-law, several years ago, died at his home, 25 Van Buren street, Sunday morning. His wife and an adopted daughter, Lydia, survive. Also one brother, Anthony Davis, of Troy, and three sisters, Mrs. Emeline Powell, Mrs. Elizabeth Gage and Mrs. Ophelia Powell, all of this city. Mr. Davis was a member of Kingston Lodge, No. 10, Free and Accepted Masons, and was a member of the Fair Street Reformed Church. The funeral services, which will be conducted by the Rev. Frank B. Seeley, D. D., will be held at the family residence, 25 Van Buren street, Tuesday afternoon, October 4, at 2:30 o'clock.

Auto And Motorcycle Collided.

Saturday evening while Harry Lang of 86 Hone street was driving his Maxwell sedan, through North Front street it collided with a motorcycle driven by David Scully of Hurier, and both machines were badly damaged. Ernest Dunham of Murphy street in this city, was riding on the rear seat of the motorcycle at the time, and both he and Scully were badly cut about the head. They had their wounds attended to by Dr. Sibley at his office.

Parent-Teachers Of School No. 5.

The Parent-Teachers Association of School No. 5 will hold their regular monthly meeting in the school at 3:30 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon. It is hoped that every member will make a special effort to be present. After the regular business routine a social hour will be enjoyed. Refreshments in charge of the teachers.

Henne's Wrist Sprung Up.

Christian Henne of Roundale was brought to the Kingston City Hospital Saturday evening for treatment of a bad rash in the wrist made by a razor. It was necessary for a member of the hospital staff to sew together the tendons Henne was then taken back home.

Elks To Get Service News.

Arrangements have been made by the Kingston Lodge, No. 550, R. F. O. E. to receive at the Elks Club, the scores by plays of the world series of baseball games in New York this week over a special wire service.

It was reported as suggested that this being so someone along the line of the wire service would be in a position to get the scores of the games as they were being played.

CASES TRIED IN SUPREME COURT

Wawarsing Said "They Shall Not Pass," but Justice Hasbrouck Decides Otherwise in Case Involving Right of Way for Cattle.

Two cases were tried and argument was had in a number of other cases before Judge Hasbrouck at the regular monthly special term of the supreme court at the court house on Saturday.

Wawarsing Cattle Pass Case.

The case of George M. Moornbeek against the town of Wawarsing, to recover damages sustained by reason of the filing in of a cattle pass at what is known as "the slide" on the Kingston-Ellenville road, was tried. H. Westlake Coons appeared for the plaintiff; County Attorney John W. Eckert appeared for the town of Wawarsing.

At the opening of the case, it was stipulated that if the plaintiff was found to be entitled to damages, the amount of damage sustained would be $500.

Testimony was given by C. A. Van Wagener of Ellenville that he had known the cattle pass for sixty years and recalled when it was built. There had been a slide of earth there and a new road was built over the top of the slide, the cattle pass being constructed at the same time and used since. The highway commissioner of Wawarsing for years kept it in repair. David A. Sidney of Lackawack, remembered the cattle pass for fifty years ago. Mr. Moornbeek testified that the highway divided the farm, one acre of which was on the lower side of the road, adjoining the creek, and there was no other water for the cattle except on the one-acre which was now shut off from the rest of the farm; the cattle pass having been filled in with rocks and earth in May of this year.

Mr. Coons said the plaintiff claimed that was an implied contract for the town to maintain the cattle pass since 1849. Mr. Eckert said the only question was whether there was a contract.

Judge Hasbrouck held that there was a contract and directed judgment for the plaintiff.

Divorce Case Tried.

The action brought by Charles H. Playford against Rosetta Playford was tried. Francis C. Morrill appeared for the plaintiff; there was no appearance on the part of the defendant. The parties were married in 1909 and the plaintiff is employed by Minard W. Myer of Old Hurley. Testimony was given that three years ago Mrs. Playford left her husband and for a time resided on Cedar street. While there, she announced that her husband, who was in the naval service of the United States, had been drowned, and that she intended to marry "Ted" Van Steenburgh, with whom she had been living. A certified copy of a marriage license was introduced in evidence. Later when a neighbor learned that Playford was living, she spoke to Mrs. Playford's mother about it but the latter said it was all right; anyway, because "Charles" never would bother them. Decision was reserved.

Other Cases Heard.

Argument was had in the case of the Columbia Trust Company against the Upper Hudson Railroad Company and the Columbia Trust Company, formerly known as the Columbia-Knickbocker Trust Company, as trustee, etc. The argument is brought to foreclose a mortgage and a motion for a bill of particulars was made on behalf of the Upper Hudson Company in regard to the names and addresses of persons claiming ownership of 450 coupons, the dates when they became owners, and the value claimed by the plaintiff of coupons and bonds. The motion was denied. Mr. Black of Gould & Wilkie appeared for the defendant and the motion; Walter C. Anthony of Newburgh appeared for the plaintiff and opposed.

Orders were granted in the following cases:

People ex rel New York Fire Insurance Exchange against Jesse S. Phillips, state superintendent of insurance. Order to show cause in certiorari proceedings granted. Davies, Auerbach & Cornell for the plaintiff.

Ann Oberl against Eva Beaumiller Swartwout. Order discontinuing action and cancelling its pendency granted. Percy W. Decker for the plaintiff.

Oscar Raymond Hiltbrant against Lamar Washington. Motion by defendant to open a default in an action for damages sustained by plaintiff amounting to $1,135.40, resulting from an automobile collision near Fishkill on April 2, 1921. Defendant claims he was informed by plaintiff's attorney that nothing would be done in regard to the suit after defendant had begun talk of settlement, but that he learned subsequently judgment had been taken by default. Plaintiff's attorney denies certain alleged conversation and claims defendant admitted negligence but offered a check for $142.55 in settlement. Decision reserved. Newton H. Fossenden appeared for the defendant and the motion; Robert K. Story of New York City appeared for the plaintiff and opposed.

In the matter of Margaret Virel, an incompetent person. Order appointing Louise Virel committee of the person and estate of the incompetent in place of Robert G. Groves, resigned, granted. Chris J. Flanagan for the petitioner.

Ernest A. Christians against Eva L. Christians. Final decree of divorce granted. Surrogate George F. Kaufman for the plaintiff.

REGULARS CLAIM VALLEY TITLE

Freddie Wetmore Explains His Side of Controversy With Colonials—Wants to Fight It Out for Clear Title to Championship of Hudson Valley—Critiques Brown.

Editor, The Kingston Daily Freeman:

Will you do me a favor and publish my clean letter to Kingston Baseball fans? I see in your paper the Poughkeepsie Regulars has a white feather.

When you read my letter you will see who has the white feather. I have been in the sporting game for over 20 years. I have won over 27 silver trophies and I want to say to the Kingston fans that they only have one side of the story.

I have been a great friend of Louis Brown for over 18 years, and I was very much surprised to see him do me dirt. He himself is to blame for me not coming to Kingston Saturday, September 24.

We talked the matter over in case Poughkeepsie and Kingston plays a tie game we would play it off at Newburgh or some other field. I was willing to do anything Mr. Brown said.

What started the trouble we played Schatz Labor Day at Poughkeepsie driving park. We won the game 2 to 1 up to the 7th inning. The chief umpire gave the Poughkeepsie Regulars the game because Schatz Club refused to play ball. There was a lot of money on the game and to save the Schatz money Schatz's friends asked him to protest the game. This little baby work of Gus Joy's started a lot of trouble. So some friend of Mr. Schatz who happened to be held of Holy Trinity baseball community let Mr. Brown do all the dirty work and he as a friend of mine surely did give me a dirty deal. I told Mr. Brown to let it drop. I supposed he thought it was a great honor to act as a judge. It was a joke, not on me, but Mr. Brown.

We went up to the Elks' Club at Kingston, N. Y., to hear Mr. Brown on points of the game, to see that we got a square deal. He caught Mike Phelan and Tom McCombs in about 25 lies. So if Mr. Brown thinks he is a good judge of baseball he wants to quit and study law.

We had our big meeting at Kingston, 4:15, and Poughkeepsie Evening Star was out in Poughkeepsie big head lines: "Wetmore has to play the game over."

So you can see it was all a frame up. I was a very surprised man to see how Mr. Brown used the Poughkeepsie Regulars. Manager Brown said he knew we could beat Schatz but gentlemen baseball is a funny game. On my first visit to Kingston I was not used very good. I did not use my game on the level but I played the game just the same and came home without any trouble. When I got home my players asked me to protest the game so I did but to be a good sport I called it off. The next thing happened at Kingston was Labor Day when Newburgh put a fast one over on Kingston; that was the afternoon game when Newburgh put in a ringer so Newburgh won.

Well we had another meeting and I was the only manager that supported good clean baseball and I stood out and gave Kingston the game. I tell you Mr. Fan when this League started they were all out to do the Poughkeepsie Regulars. But I fooled them all. I have been in the baseball business too long to be fooled. Here is the reason I did not come up to Kingston last Saturday. We have played Schatz all our games, 3, and also played Kingston 2 and Newburgh 1. Some of Poughkeepsie fans and fans in other towns wanted to know how Schatz and Kingston stood in the Valley League, so they all wanted these 2 teams to play at once so we could see how we all stood in the standing of the League. By Schatz and Kingston playing off their 2 games that would make it fine. So that would make Kingston 1 game with the Regulars and 1 game with Schatz. The last meeting we had in Kingston, Mr. Brown told me I had to play Schatz Club 2 games as he wanted to see how we stood in the League. At the same time I had a game booked at Newburgh and to be a good sport I gave this game to Kingston and stayed here and beat Schatz Club 7 to 3 and 5 to 4. To the Fans, Don't you think I had a right to fight and make Mr. Brown and Mr. Schatz come together for 2 games so I could see how they stood in the League standing?

If Mr. Brown did not have his say at all times there would not have been all this trouble. I always thought the world of Mr. Brown, but I have found him a different man today. I will tell you something else that happened last Friday. Mr. Brown came to Poughkeepsie and he and Mr. Schatz had a special meeting at Mr. Schatz's home but did not invite me into their conference. I was not wanted at that meeting so you can see what I put up with. I did not know Mr. Brown was in town Friday evening until the Star came out with big head lines. If Wetmore don't play in Kingston he will lose the game and also Mr. Schatz was going to stand by Mr. Schatz to let him know I was coming anyway. Mrs. Brown said Louis was at a baseball meeting at Poughkeepsie, so do you call that good, clean sport? So we called up Mr. Schatz and he said he was going to Kingston in place of Poughkeepsie Regulars. Why didn't they want me at the meeting Friday night?

I was very sorry to stand the face up Saturday, so Sunday we had a talk with Mr. Brown and wanted to go to Kingston the following Saturday, but he said nothing doing.

Why does he talk like that? I thought the fans wanted to see a fight it out. The way it now stands it would be a great treat to see Kingston and Poughkeepsie fight it out for the championship of the Hudson river. I am willing to Kingston any time you want me.

The way things stand I claim the Hudson river championship and W. Poughkeepsie is spending some

The White House and your house

We guarantee ARCOLA to warm any small house as perfectly as our larger heating plants warm mansions, clubs, cathedrals, and even the White House itself

WE guarantee that ARCOLA has these five advantages which no small-home heating equipment has ever offered:

- 1—Connected with American Radiators it will fill every room of a small house, upstairs and down, with healthful hot-water warmth.
- 2—It will save the waste and labor of a half dozen old-fashioned stuffy stoves.
- 3—It will reduce your fuel consumption room for room at least one-third of the amount consumed by stoves or hot-air furnaces as proved by the experience of thousands of ARCOLA owners.
- 4—Connected with the kitchen tank it will provide an abundance of hot water for washing and bathing.
- 5—It can be installed easily and quickly without the slightest disturbance to the family.

This is no ordinary guarantee. It is offered by the largest manufacturer of heating equipment in the world.

The perfection of ARCOLA, after years of experiment in our research laboratories, means that now, for the first time, the small home can be as perfectly warmed as our larger heating outfits warm clubs, mansions, and even the White House itself.

And the cost of ARCOLA with American Radiators complete is—think of it—no more to install than a stove for each room.

Make up your mind to save a third of what you have been spending for fuel. See ARCOLA in the store of your Heating Contractor today.

The red and yellow card at the right is the sign of a Heating or Sanitary Engineer (formerly called Steam-Fitter or Plumber) who can show you ARCOLA. Look for it in his window. It will pay you to consult him twice a year as you do your Doctor or Dentist. To have him examine and report on your heating and plumbing costs little. It may save you a very great deal.

Mrs. Andrew Decker has returned to her home in Schenectady, after spending some time at the home of Maryann Krom.

Mrs. Robert Terwilliger and son of Cornwall, were through this place Wednesday.

Mrs. and Mrs. D. Norrith and Mrs. Maryann Krom spent the week-end with friends in Walden.

Mrs. Ida Krueger entertained relatives from the city for a few days this week.

Mrs. J. Lewis and children of Poughkeepsie is spending some time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Freer.

A "Sabbath day's Journey" was the distance that the law of the Jews (formerly also of the early Christians) permitted one to walk on Sunday. In Acts 1:72 the Sabbath day's Journey is placed at the distance of about 1000 feet from Jerusalem. Anyone could walk the distance from the city around the suburbs, and by the rule of the Levites this distance was fixed at a circumference the radius of which was 2500 cubits. The Talmud places the Sabbath day's Journey at 12 miles.

A Big Visitor.
London people like to keep their clocks and watches with "Big Ben" because it is the accurate timepiece of Great Britain. It is also the largest clock in the world. It is wound by machinery which takes power enough to drive a steamship, and it takes two men several hours three times a week to wind it up and keep it in order. The hour figure is two feet long on the dial of Big Ben. Its hour hand is made of gold-leaf and its minute hand, which is 11 feet long, is of copper. The pendulum of Big Ben weighs 700 pounds and is 25 feet long.

USE OF NECKWEAR

Decoration Affords Appearance of Changes of Dress.

Many of Latest Imports of Sheer White Fabrics With Touches of Bright Color.

A stock of pretty neckwear plays an important part in any woman's wardrobe, but more so in that of the girl at boarding school or college, whose clothes are more simple than those of her debutante sister. Consequently they require the small touches which metamorphose a frock or suit and give the appearance of more changes of dress than one actually has.

Sweaters more than any other article of dress have done a great deal for neckwear. About a year and a half ago all of the best dressmakers featured the Margerie neck finish, and much was said and written about it as being the return of a well-liked but for a time neglected fashion which would be joyfully accepted by all women.

This was not verified. While everybody knows that a touch of white at the neck makes a gown more becoming and a woman appear more youthful, for some reason the plain, collarless neck has been preferred.

It is the tailored suit and the sweater that keep the neckwear business thriving. The wearing of one-piece dresses for such a long time was rather a severe blow to this dainty detail of dress. The recent revival of tailored suits, especially those with the open front requiring a handsome gilet, has stimulated the production of new things in this line.

Many of the latest imports are of sheer white fabrics with touches of bright color introduced, such as new reds or unusual shades of blue. These may be in the form of a simple embroidery with a narrow string tie to match. Bright-colored leathers, too, are seen on guimpes and waistcoats of sheer fabrics.

OIL PAINTING ON THE DRESS

Decorations in oil paint on costumes has just been introduced. This gown in black taffeta with a silhouette skirt has the oil-painted decorations distributed in the folds of the skirt.

"LEATHER FRINGE" NO JOKE

White Kid New and Interesting Trimming Used on Satin and Crepe Frocks.

White kid is one of the new and interesting trimmings used on black satin and crepe frocks. A black frock has white kid applied in the form of fringe. Twelve rows, each about an inch and a half deep, finish the bottom of the skirt, two rows appearing on each sleeve and as a border for the round cape collar.

This collar, by the way, sometimes reaching almost to the waistline, is shown on quite a number of the early fall frocks. Naturally a slender figure is required if the collar or cape is to be becoming, and regardless of the fact that statisticians have produced figures to prove that about 45 per cent of the total female population should be listed in the "slim" class, straight, slender, youthful figures are seen in abundant numbers.

The frock fastens in the back and is finished at the waistline with a folded white kid belt, which is caught together at the back with an ornamental buckle.

Looped Panels and Seams.

Straight line dresses all have drooping of some sort, looped panels and seams chiefly. The latest neckline is retained, but the skirt design has been superseded by the long wide open pleats, sometimes of sheer fabric, and a dress of black with wide seams and side drapery of black and embroidered in large disks of silvery gray silk thread.

Lichens Make Superior Colors.

Some of the most striking colors upon the earth are their characteristic features to mosses and lichens. The famous "crimson cliffs" of Greenland, which extend for miles northward from Cape York, derive their splendid color from the growth of red lichen which covers their face. The cliffs rise between 1,000 and 2,000 feet straight from the water's edge, and being composed of gray granite, their aspect would be entirely different from what it is except for the presence of the lichen.

Home-Made Fruit Bowl.

If you have an old wooden bowl that is not in style use, purchase some shellac and some paint. First clean the bowl and give it a coat of white paint. When thoroughly dry, shellac it. The bowl will be a very attractive fruit bowl. If you understand the art of painting flowers or leaves, how to make pretty borders, this will make the bowl more attractive. —Thrift Magazine.

Removing Paint From Wood.

To rid wood of bad color give it a coat of paint or varnish. If a door or window frame has been painted and you wish to remove the paint, use a sandpaper and a brush. The paint will be removed and the wood will be left smooth and ready for a new coat of paint or varnish.

Pictures.

The fashion of having many small pictures clustered together on the wall is one that has long since passed. And yet there are to be seen in many well-furnished homes living rooms, no less than bedrooms, where a good picture when it is surrounded by half a dozen others, one or two pictures hung in the right place and in the right way, is a far more attractive than a gallery. Nothing is more in the mode of the present generation.

Special Attention.

I am a great believer in special attention. When I have trouble with my car, I go to a man who has a reputation for being an expert on cars. "There's no trick," said old Lady (Mrs. Brown). "And that's why when my car was broken, I had the trouble out and I took her to a regular commercial artist."

Possible to Train Crows.

The search for food is the crow's chief business, although his love for glittering things causes him to wander from his chosen road when attracted by the gleam of some object at a distance. If this object of his curiosity can be transported, he takes it. The crow is easily tamed, but the process demands patience. Many crows will be distinctly as persons. Using the Elder notes a case where a crow, brought in the form and named Emperor Theodore and his two sons, "calling them by name."

The Seven Sleepers.

The story concerns seven Christian youths of Ephesus, imprisoned by order of the Emperor Decius in a cave in which they sought refuge, and where they fell asleep for nearly 200 years, awaking to find a new civilization. They then related their story to the multitude, gave them their baptism, and expired. The church consecrated June 27 to their memory.

Worry.

Worry is worse than the seven-year itch. You can scratch that so that you can get something a little more new and then, but nobody ever wanted a new car for nothing. You have to go to the end of the road and graft in a happy condition where it used to grow. It can be done. Thank God for that!

MORE INCOME TAX MONEY FOR ULSTER

Ulster county received from the state today a check for $1,398.52 as its share of the second distribution of receipts from the 1920 state income tax. This brings the total, so far received in the county from the 1920 income tax collections to $47,549.60.

The total distribution today to all of the counties of the state amounts to $500,000 which is one-half of the $1,000,000 collected for 1920 income tax since July 1, according to the certification of the state tax commission which administers the state income tax law. The other goes to the state treasurer to be placed to the credit of the general fund.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

New York, Oct. 3.—The stock market showed an irregular tone at the beginning of business today with fractional advances recorded in many of the active issues. All the oil issues were in good demand, many of the smaller priced shares showing more activity than in many months. Texas Pacific Coal and Oil rose  $\frac{1}{4}$  to 23 while Invincible Oil was  $\frac{1}{4}$  higher at 12. Mexican Petroleum showed a loss of  $\frac{1}{4}$  at 9  $\frac{1}{4}$  and General Asphalt was  $\frac{1}{4}$  higher at 54. United States Steel started  $\frac{1}{4}$  lower at 79  $\frac{1}{4}$  and Baldwin Locomotive was unchanged at 87  $\frac{1}{4}$ . Reading made an opening gain of  $\frac{1}{4}$  to 72  $\frac{1}{4}$  and Lehigh Valley moved up  $\frac{1}{4}$  to 59  $\frac{1}{4}$ .

Facts About Hydrophobia.

Many people have an idea that dogs only go mad during the so-called "dog days." As a matter of fact, the disease that drives dogs mad—hydrophobia or rabies—can be contracted at any time from a rabid animal and is scarcely more prevalent at one season than at another.

Twenty million dollars will be distributed within the next six months to settlers and other persons by the forest fires that swept Northern Minnesota in October, 1918, causing the death of several hundred persons and leaving waste cities and villages.

Silver Got $500 for Month's Work.

Miners in the Logan County (W. Va.) coal field say that Joseph Sargent, working night hours a day, mined 230 mine cars during 14 working days in June, receiving $267.50 for his labor. His total for the month was over $500.

MUCH EXPECTED OF NEW AIRSHIP

Craft Built in Italy for U. S. Army Nearly Rivals ZR-2.

ROMA IS SEMI-RIGID SHIP

is 200 Feet Shorter Than ZR-2, but About the Same in Girth—Will Carry 100 Passengers, and is Capable of Speed of 80 Miles an Hour—Gives Good Account of Itself in Tests in Italy—Knocked Down and Shipped as Freight.

In spite of the recent disaster of the ZR-2, the world's largest airship, America has a large lighter-than-air craft that will be able to cross the continent or the Atlantic ocean.

This is the semi-rigid ship, the Roma, which is now being assembled and erected at the Langley field, near Norfolk, Va., by the army air service. This airship, like the ill-fated ZR-2, was purchased in a foreign country, in this case Italy.

This craft, which will be the sole capital ship of this country's air forces, is expected to be ready for her first flights in this country in the near future. For some weeks, army mechanics have been erecting the craft, which, unlike the ZR-2, has no rigid frame throughout its body.

Smaller Than ZR-2.

The Roma, technically known as Model T-34, is 410 feet long, 200 feet shorter than the ZR-2. If it were stood up on end by the side of the Washington monument, it would be outclassed by 145 feet. But in girth, the Roma is practically the equal of the ZR-2. The army's ship is 82 feet thick and 90 feet high while the wrecked naval craft was 85 feet wide and 92 feet high. The Roma will need 1,188,000 cubic feet of hydrogen to fill its large gas bag. The capacity of the ZR-2 was 2,720,000 cubic feet. But in speed the Roma is expected to outclass the wrecked ship. Eighty miles an hour is the estimated speed of the Roma, while the ZR-2 only had a maximum of 75 miles per hour. The army's new ship will weigh 88 tons when fully loaded, and 21 of those tons will be made up of crew, ballast, fuel and other useful load, which could include 100 passengers. It has six 12-cylinder, 400 horse power Ansaldo engines, placed in pairs at the two ends and the center of the ship.

The Roma is of a radically different design from the wrecked British-built ZR-2. English aeronautical designers patterned their ships to a great extent after the German Zeppelins, which have rigid frames that do not allow the gas bag to deflate even when empty. The Roma was built by Signor Celestino Usellini, a wealthy Italian business man, in collaboration with the engineer, Francesco Colonel Crocco and others, who believe that the semi-rigid construction, in which frame-work is only needed along the keel of the gas bag, has all the advantages of the rigid ship while reducing the expense of construction and considerably speeding up this work.

Aeronautical experts of this country and other parts of the world had been looking forward to the performance of the Roma and the ZR-2 as the first real comparison between large ships of the two different types, and news of the loss of the British ship caused regret on that score as well as because of the loss of life.

Largest Semi-Rigid.

The Roma, which is the largest, semi-rigid ship ever built, was designed originally for the purpose of flying across the Atlantic. This feat, however, was abandoned, as there appeared to be no material gain in such a flight, except for demonstrative effect, and the ship was knocked down and sent to this country as freight. While in Italy, it underwent strenuous trial flights.

Both the ZR-2 and the Roma were bought by the United States government, so that the lighter-than-air forces of this country would have a flying start in its building process. The lessons that were to be learned from them would be utilized in the building of airships here in America.

Besides the Roma, the air forces have only totally non-rigid "blimps" and captive and kite balloons. The army has three "blimps" in commission, while the navy has about the same number.

BANKING HAS ITS ROMANCE

Quiet Spot in London Where Monetary Transactions of Immense Importance Are Ordinary.

Romance is hidden away in all kinds of old corners of the city of London, and some of it is to be found within half a minute's walk of the vortex of traffic outside the Mansion house, London T. B. B. states.

Here, in a secluded building that few persons ever see, is the beating heart of one of the greatest romances in the world—the romance of banking.

In and out of this almost unknown building flows, minute by minute, the life stream of the trade and commerce of the land. Last year the almost incredible river of thirty-nine thousand million pounds passed in at one door and out by the other.

It is not the Bank of England that pulses with this current of fabulous wealth, but it is the London clearing house, that nestles in a corner of Post Office court, tucked away in the yegre of buildings between Lombard street and King William street, with an immense building hiding it at one side and Lubbock's bank at the other.

Every time one of its doors, marked "Private-In" and "Private-Out," swings a fortune goes in or comes out—an average of £127,512,700 a day last year.

The river consists not of silver or gold, but of pieces of paper—"bills, checks and so on"—and it is carried by messengers from the banks. Each bank associated with the clearing house has its own desk in the building.

Year by year the river increases. In 1908 it topped three thousand millions. By 1908 it was over twelve thousand millions. In 1918 it rose to more than sixteen thousand millions. The second year of the war saw it down by a trifle of three thousand millions. Since then it has leaped up each year.

Now its volume is so great that the clearing house has to find more room, and the Standard Life Assurance company's offices, facing King William street, have been bought for £300,000. Part of the building has for some time been annexed to the clearing house. Now the whole is to be taken in.

Alaskan Volcanic Fires.

At a recent meeting of the American Society for the Advancement of Science, Dr. Robert F. Griggs described a fiery flood which occurred in Alaska in the "Valley of Ten Thousand Sinkholes." Here he found traces of the flood of fire which, issuing from a fissure in the earth, swept a roaring torrent of molten sand through the fertile valley, devastating all in its path for a distance of more than fifteen miles.

From thousands of fissures live steam heated gas and smoke issued. One could do one's cooking in any of the smaller holes. And that was the only salvation of the expedition for all fuel had been destroyed by the flood of fire. It is only a few steps from the steaming fissures to a cave in the side of the glacier, in order to have the most perfect refrigeration in the world.

The explorers' tents were steam heated, as it were, and the bathing conditions were of the best, for a stream from the glacier fed a crystal pure lake. In the middle of this lake a steam jet bubbled, and it was possible to get any desired temperature.

Asphalt Much Used in Building.

"Roofing" constitutes an important branch of a much broader field of engineering, known as "waterproofing." In which asphalt has for thousands of years played an important part. The ancient Egyptians were able to preserve their mummies in good condition to the present day by wrapping them in fabric saturated and made waterproof and weather resisting with asphalt. Modern ingenuity has discovered no material better adapted to waterproofing and preserving its present day structures than asphalt. It is not surprising, therefore, that in recent years the production of asphalt in large quantities has been rendered possible by refining crude petroleum. Its use for roofing and waterproofing has developed rapidly. In many structures from roof to cellar asphalt plays an important part, first as roofing, then as sheathing and insulating and finally as a waterproofing membrane for the underground portion—Exchange.

Sixteen-Wheeled Automobile?

Hippolyte W. Romanoff, a Russian inventor residing in New York, has been granted a patent on a sixteen-wheel vehicle for which he claims more riding comfort and greater economy of time than at present available in the four-wheeled vehicle. According to Motor World the inventor plans four four-wheeled trucks, one at each corner of the car, each wheel turning on an independent spindle and four spindles supported by a linked parallel system so that if one wheel rises over an obstruction all of the wheels remain vertical.

What's the Penalty for This?

"Ah," exclaimed the fatuous "chuck" reporter as he held into a hammer with the woman's most beautiful finger. "This reminds me of a newspaper headline."

Extraordinary Hope.

"I understand robbery is on the increase."

"I hope so," replied Bill the burglar. "Maybe in the course of time I'll become so fashionable that there'll be no one trying to enforce the law again."

"Hello," said the Fairy Queen to a huge creature who looked both like a moth and a butterfly.

"Hello," said the creature.

"My name is the Fairy Queen. Won't you tell me yours?"

"Name is Samia Cecropia, though my family call me Cecropia for short."

"I don't call that such a short name," laughed the Fairy Queen.

"Now if you had the name of Tom or Bert or Sam or something of that sort it would be different. That would really be a short name."

"Well," said Cecropia, "my name

Cecropia is shorter than my whole

name Samia Cecropia."

"Would you be so good as to tell, inquired the Fairy Queen, "whether you are a moth or a butterfly?"

"Gladly will I tell you," said Ce-cropia, "and I will tell you without delay."

"Good," said the Fairy Queen. "May

I sit here on this bush and chat with you for a time?"

"Indeed, it would be a pleasure to have such a beautiful visitor," and Cecropia waved his wings with a fine

f flourish.

The Fairy Queen smiled happily and sat on the bush near the Cecropia.

"I am a moth," said the Cecropia,

"and I think you would call me a fine, handsome moth, wouldn't you?"

"I should say I would," answered the Fairy Queen.

"I don't mean to be conceited when

I say that," continued Cecropia, "for

I do not feel I am responsible. Not do I feel as though I should receive the credit and the praise.

"It is because the Cecropia family are this way."

"Of course, of course," said the

Fairy Queen, "I quite understand."

"We have the same coloring—we members of the Cecropia family. You see my head and body and parts of my wings are a beautiful reddish brown color with white stripes. My wings are reddish brown in color, and I have decorations of crescents on my wings, which are white and red and edged with red and black.

Some of us have slightly different shadings in our crescent decorations.

Some are more white and some more red than others.

"And we have a beautiful shimmer to our wings."

"Oh," said the Fairy Queen, "you are very beautiful to my mind. Your coloring is perfect. I love the red and the reddish brown and the bits of black and white and gray which you care for in your color scheme."

"We have very large cocoons, too," continued Cecropia, "but of course a cocoon to me is ancient history!"

The Fairy Queen laughed.

"And now, beautiful Cecropia, may

I ask you one more question?"

"Indeed, Fairy Queen, any question that I am able to answer for you I will gladly do so."

"Then will you tell me the difference between a moth and a butterfly?"

"There are several differences," said

Cecropia. "In the first place, you know of the antennae of an insect or creature such as I am?"

"Yes," the Fairy Queen nodded.

"Butterflies," Cecropia answered,

"have club-shaped antennae and moths have feathered antennae such as I have.

"Then, too, butterflies fly almost always by day and moths are resting during the daytime, and fly as a rule by night.

"These are the two most important ways of telling our families apart."

"I'm so glad to know," said the Fairy Queen.

"In fact, we've been meaning to find this out for some time, for we found that we got very much confused at times."

"It is hard to tell the difference," said Cecropia, "but the more you watch us the more you'll understand us. Of course I am sure of the difference, for I am sure I'm a moth, because I am as few off with a polite wave of farewell to the Fairy Queen.

Some Replies Not Funny.

SMELL HIS BREATH
IF YOU DOUBT IT

Asked Where He Acquired The Joy Water That Was His Reply—He Was Happy Though Drunk, And Carried A Hound Dog In His Arms.

"I don't care if the world am dry. Watch me toddle and you'll know why."

It is easy to get it in the "know" but if you don't it's a sad, sad blow.

Warbling the above ditty in a minor key to himself as he wobbled from side to side along the sidewalk at an early hour, careened a stranger with his hat on one side of his head at a rakish angle, while his clothes appeared as though some one had thrown them on him, and in his arms he carried a hound dog that wore the most forlorn looking expression ever seen on a canine's pelt.

Every once in a while as the warbly gent halted to catch his breath between verses the hound would emit a deep bass yowl, and squirm about in an effort to release itself from the position in which it was carried.

"I'll say that's a bird," murmured the cop on the beat to himself as he approached the stranger. Then addressing the warbly one the officer asked "Where do you live, and what are you doing at this time of night?"

"I'm looking for the dark of the moon," retorted the warbly one in tipsy tones.

"Evidently you have found it," said the cop, "but where did you get that dog?"

The warbly one grinned foolishly, and replied, "I got it from this here hound."

"What's that?" asked the officer. "I got it from carrying this hound," retorted the warbly one, "and if you don't believe me just smell his breath," and he held the dog invitingly under the officer's nose.

"Well you better take your dog and get off the street before I place you under arrest," threatened the officer as he turned his head aside to hide the grin that over-appeared his face.

"Thank you, Officer," said the warbly one and he nearly sprawled to the walk below as he attempted to hold the hound firmly with one hand and tip his hat with the other.

Then as he came to the corner he turned and said, "Say, Officer if you have any friends that want to borrow this here hound just let me know and I'll lend him to them."

"On your way," advised the officer sternly, and the warbly one and his hound dog vanished in the gloom of the early morning.

ROCHESTER CENTER.

Rochester Center, Sept. 30.—Mr. and Mrs. Baxter Schoonmaker of Ellenville are spending some time at Loran Krom's.

Mrs. R. Churchill and Mrs. Alson Chrissy spent Monday afternoon with Mrs. Chrissy's mother, Mrs. R. Markle.

Edward Chrissy and Arthur Chrissy were in Kingston on Saturday.

A number from this place attended the dance at Morris Rodberg's last Saturday evening. An enjoyable time was the report from all.

Miss Lulu Connors, who has been very ill, is resting a little easier at this writing.

Mrs. Elmira Connors was in Accord one day the past week.

Howard Gray seems to be the only one to have city guests. This makes it seem more like winter. No more frosts are seen around.

Jack Fromer has not made his appearance as yet.

Mrs. E. Allen, who was injured in an auto accident near Kingston, is now able to be around again.

Leon Churchill is home after being employed at Yama Farms for the summer.

Daisy Churchill spent Saturday and Sunday at her home here.

Miss Edna and Miss Hornbeck called on Mrs. R. Churchill and Mrs. E. Allen on Tuesday afternoon. A very enjoyable afternoon was spent.

Ray Chrissy and wife called on their brother, Luther, one day the past week.

Luther Chrissy has his water supply nearly to an end.

Alson Chrissy has his house nearly ready. He is doing most of the work himself.

Dye Van Demark had the misfortune to lose his best cow. It fell and broke its leg.

Mrs. Lina Crawford and mother called on Mrs. Crawford's daughter, one day the past week.

Mrs. Anna Bell and family are home after spending the summer camping.

Roy Van Gasbeck has a new Buick four.

B. Schoonmaker, who is boarding at Loran Krom's is out of town on business.

Mr. Allen, who has supplied this community and nearby towns with bread, cakes and all other kinds of fine pastries, will move his bakery to Northbrook on October 1st. Besides a bakery there will also be a delicatessen. Bread and other things will be brought to Rocky Acre from every day for the convenience of the people here. If anything special is ordered Mr. Allen will gladly make an order. We all hope to see every thing put out as perfect as at Rocky Acre.

Barthelme Meets a Sport.

Dick Barthelme says he has met many sports in his day; but none equal a country friend he met while on location.

"He pestered the life out of me to introduce him to a girl in the picture. I finally did so. He took her out three times and stopped short."

"What's the matter? I asked him. 'Don't you like her any more?'"

"Well, I thought I liked her, but she tried to work me," he answered.

"The first time I was out with her she told me she liked salted almonds, so I got her some. The next night, when we were taking a walk, she had to have some more. The third night, when we were sitting on the hotel porch, she wanted some more salted almonds."

"That's where I quit," Dick quoted his rural friend as saying. "That girl eats more than 30 cents now and she hasn't made a cent to pay it back!"—New York Tribune.

Advice to Women.

Bishop Hughes was talking about agnosticism at a luncheon in Portland.

"An agnostic asked me once," he said, "if I didn't come across a good many things in the Bible I couldn't understand."

"Of course I do," said I.

"Well," said the agnostic, "what do you do about it?"

"My dear friend," I answered, "I do just as I would while eating a nice bit of planked steak. When I come to a bone I cut it off and eat the meat, leaving my knife and fork on the table."

Miss Jane Emma Munson of Kingston spent the week end with Miss Pauline Munson on Broadway.

Robert Schryver of New York city spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Schryver on Broadway.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bishop of Kingston spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Elsworth Doyle on Main street.

Miss Henrietta Elsworth of Kingston called on Miss Etta Elsworth on Broadway Sunday.

PROCTOR A KELLY FIND.

Sculptor's Penchant For Accuracy Uncarries Man Who Saw Lincoln Die.

After a long search, James E. Kelly, the famous sculptor who designed the Roll of Honor tablet which adorns the retaining wall in front of the city hall of Kingston, has discovered that the man in whose bedroom President Lincoln died the morning after his assassination by J. Wilkes Booth, is a pauper in the City Home on Blackwell's Island, New York city.

Mr. Kelly for a number of years has been a student of the life of Abraham Lincoln, and for a long time has been collecting data in regard to Lincoln which never has been published, and gathering anecdotes first-hand from people who knew or had met Lincoln. When he was in Kingston at the time of the unveiling of his tablet at the city hall, Mr. Kelly secured several hitherto unpublished anecdotes from Major William Vallette in regard to Lincoln.

In connection with the design depicting the scene at Lincoln's death bed, Mr. Kelly studied many pictures purporting to portray the scene, and talked with those who had been familiar with it. He learned that one of those present was a clerk in the War Department named Thomas Proctor, who lived in the humble house opposite Ford's theatre and that the president after being shot, was carried from the theatre to the room of Proctor. Mr. Kelly was anxious to talk with Proctor, if he was still alive, and sought the help of Timothy Daly of 286 Adelphi street, Brooklyn. Proctor having been a law partner of Mr. Daly's brother, in New York city, for many years, Mr. Kelly had known Proctor years ago when he was prominent among the lawyers of New York city. It was not until twenty years ago that Proctor told the story of how he directed the men who carried Lincoln from the theatre to his own room, and he always was reticent about the matter. Mr. Kelly learned that Proctor had been an occupant of the room when Lincoln died from Osborne H. Oldroyd, present owner of the famous house and owner of a large collection of Lincoln relics.

Last Sunday Mr. Kelly and Mr. Daly visited the City Home on Blackwell's Island and talked with Proctor. A breakdown in his health ten years ago caused him to lose his grip and he became an inmate of the New York city institution in 1915. Proctor's memory on most topics, including the last hours of Lincoln, is hazy.

Officials at the Blackwell's Island home have heard of Proctor's story during the years he has been there but regarded it as a delusion. His stories make but brief mention of the death scene of the martyred president, and the newspaper accounts of the assassination furnish but little more information. One contemporary wood-cut, which was published in Leslie's magazine shortly after the assassination, shows Proctor among the group about the death bed of the president.

Few sculptors in America have displayed such painstaking care in regard to accurate detail as Mr. Kelly. It is his love of accuracy in addition to his artistic treatment in all sculptural work he has undertaken which has made Mr. Kelly's work famous.

Proctor for many years was well known as a naturalist and was an intimate friend of John Burroughs.

Pine Tree Flag Used in Revolution.

"Y" GYMNASIUM
CLASSES REOPEN

Now that the cool weather has arrived a large number of the members of the local association are beginning to turn their thoughts to indoor exercise and recreation. The physical department is now ready and in fine condition to begin the season's activities. Today the regular gymnasium classes covering every division of the membership commenced. It is expected that a greater number will be using the physical department privileges than ever before, judging by the interest being taken in the coming season's work.

This year music will be provided for the drills using the dumb bells, clubs, bar-bells and also gymnastic dancing. Miss Elizabeth Richards of Port Ewen, will assist at the piano.

With music one cannot resist donning a gym suit and jumping into the class work. It is the purpose of the physical director, R. H. Begg, to make his work pleasing and beneficial for all and a good time for all may be counted upon.

The swimming pool has been decorated and new diving board has been installed. Those who have tried it say that it is the best ever.

The lovers of bowling will be pleased to learn that the bowling alleys under the direction of Linn Card will be open for the use of the members this evening. Mr. Card says that the alleys are in fine condition and claims that more than one record will fall before the season is very far advanced. The Mercantile League, which was such a success last year, will be reorganized very soon.

The schedule of the gymnasium classes for the various divisions of membership are as follows:

Business men will meet on Mondays and Fridays from 12:00 a. m. to 1:00 p. m., and on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 5:00 to 6:00 p. m.

The seniors will meet on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 8:00 to 9:45 p. m.

The policemen will meet on Tuesdays at 2:00 p. m.

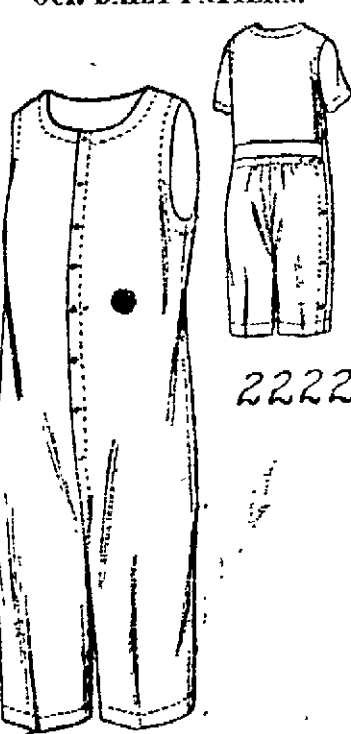

The employed boys will have three periods per week on the gymnasium and will meet Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 6:45 to 8:00 p. m.

The ladies' class will meet on Tuesday evenings from 7:30 to 10:00 p. m. and the swimming class will meet on Fridays from 9:00 to 11:00 a. m.

The boys' classes will be as follows:

Boys A will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays from 3:15 to 4:15 p. m. and on Saturdays from 10:00 to 11:30 a. m.; Boys B will meet Tuesdays and Fridays from 1:00 to 2:00 p. m.; Boys C will meet on Wednesdays from 4:00 to 5:00 p. m. and on Saturdays from 9:00 to 10:00 a. m.

The Power of Music.

Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, formerly controller of the currency, best known as "Hell on Mars" and now director of the fiscal system of the federal government, is a musician as well as a financial magnificence who proposes to make Uncle Sam's high cost of doing business dwindle and shrink to the vanishing point.

While commissioner of supplies at General Pershing's headquarters in France, General Dawes needed eight hundred horses and needed them in a hurry. His formal application was promptly turned down by the British commander. Dawes was not to be thwarted, and trailed this particular officer, Gen. William E. Baskin, to his hotel and thence to a cafe to make a personal appeal.

While they were waiting for service a good orchestra played. It brought Dawes' thinking across into tune. He had a party with the orchestra leader and soon was playing an instrument. General Baskin and his party are engaged this month that they kept Dawes playing most all night and in the morning he got his eight hundred horses. He had fooled them out of the British commander.

As a further evidence he stated that his followers, loyal and faithful Christians, would be hated of various nations for his name's sake, and would be persecuted. Dawes was also mentioned during the World War, and many Christians in Austria, Germany, Great Britain, Canada, the United States, and other places, were persecuted.

The greater number of this persecution was because of abundance—Isaiah 36; Ezekiel 36:24, 35.

The seed of Abraham according to the promise consists of Christ, Jesus while he was writing a term in prison on a false charge of sedition. Hundreds of thousands of copies of "The Finished Mystery" are now in the hands of the people.

Another important date God has made clear through the prophets. When the children of Israel entered the land of Palestine in the year 1575 B. C., God required them to count the years from that date forward, and to keep every fiftieth year as a jubilee, and commanded that these jubilees should be kept for seventy periods, which would be equivalent to a total of 7,500 years. St. Paul shows that these things were type or shadows.

The jubilee periods typified the thousand year reign of Christ, which would begin at the time of his second coming, and at the end of the world, when the obedient of mankind must be restored. A period of 7,500 years beginning in 1575 B. C. is the jubilee confidently expected from the scriptures that 1925 will mark the end of wars, famine, pestilence, revolutions, anarchy, and general disturbances, and that the restoration of man will progress from that time forward.

Millions of people now living on earth reasonably expect, in the ordinary course of events, to live ten or fifteen years. Those living in 1925 and thereafter, coming to a knowledge of the truth and being obedient to this message of truth, will be gradually restored to perfection of body and mind and will live on the earth forever in a state of happiness.

The earth will gradually be improved, the waste places inhabited, and the whole world become a fit habitation sufficient to support the entire human race with comfort.

"MILLIONS NOW LIVING" WILL "NEVER DIE"

C. A. Wise of Indianapolis, Ind., in his lecture at Colonial Theatre, Mechanic's Hall, Henry street, Sunday afternoon, under the auspices of the International Bible Students' Association, spoke as follows:

The regeneration of the human race has been the hope of Christians for centuries, which hope is based upon God's promises. To Abraham he said, "In thy seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed" (Genesis 12:3, 22:18). This promised blessing is life everlasting.—Romans 6:23.

The opening chapters of the Bible tell of the creation of perfect man in the image and likeness of God, and his habitation in a perfect home, Eden, of his violation of the divine law and his sentence to death. By inheritance all of his offspring have been born imperfect, therefore sinners and in a dying condition.

(Romans 5:12) God made promise to redeem man from death (Hosea 13:14). This redemption to be accomplished only by the willing sacrifice of a perfect man. God sent his son Jesus into the world for that purpose. (John 3:16) He came to ransom man from the power of the devil (Matthew 20:28). That the people might have life. (John 10:10) He died for the benefit of all men (Hebrews 2:9), which testimony must be given to all men in God's due time. (1 Timothy 2:5, 6) At that time every man shall hear the truth taught by Jesus, who promised: "If a man keep my saying he shall never see death." (John 8:51) There must be a due time for all men to hear these truths before they can be kept.

The first six verses of Revelation 21 tell of a time coming when there will be no more death, and which time is stated to be during the reign of Christ. "He (Christ) must reign till he hath put all enemies under his feet. The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death."—1 Corinthians 15:25, 26.

It is evident from the foregoing Scriptural proof that there must come a time when the people will have an opportunity for life, peace and happiness. The question is: When? St. Peter answers this question, saying: "Times of refreshing shall come from the presence of the Lord, and he (God) shall send Jesus Christ, who before was preached unto you, whom the heaven must retain until the times of restoration of all things, which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began."—Acts 3:19-21, 24. This statement conclusively proves that at the second coming of Christ and during his reign the obedient ones of the human race will be restored to exactly what Adam lost, viz., perfect manhood and a perfect home.

Twenty-four of the holy prophets of Jehovah foretold the coming of such a restoration of man. These prophets spoke with divine authority. The disciples of Jesus knowing of the testimony of these holy prophets and of the coming time of restoration propounded to Jesus this question: "Master, tell us how may we know of the time of thy presence and of the end of the world?" (Matthew 24:3) The answer of Jesus to this question was clear and conclusive, understandable by men when the events mentioned by him should be fulfilled. The answer shows, in connection with other Scriptures, that the end of the world and the setting up of Messiah's kingdom will mark the beginning of the restoration of man, and from that time forward millions of people living on earth will never die.

The first important question, then, is, what is meant by the end of the world and when does it occur? World means social and political order continuing for a certain time. The lease of earthly dominion began, according to Bible chronology and history, 4000 B. C., and necessarily ended in 1914, which marks the end of the present order, at which time its disintegration should be expected. Jesus stated that when that time arrived there would be a world war, famine, pestilence, and revolutions in various parts of the earth, marking the beginning of the world's ending. All these things have been fulfilled since 1914, and the famine and revolutions are still in progress.

He further stated, and this is corroborated by many of the prophets, that the return of the Jews to Palestine would be an additional evidence of the great time of the world's end. This fact is also now accomplished.

Additionally he said that during the period of the end of the world there would be men earth districts of nations, with uprightness, men's hearts failing them for fear of what they are seeing upon the earth. This is now in progress.

As a further evidence he stated that his followers, loyal and faithful Christians, would be hated of various nations for his name's sake, and would be persecuted. Dawes was also mentioned during the World War, and many Christians in Austria, Germany, Great Britain, Canada, the United States, and other places, were persecuted.

The greater number of this persecution was because of abundance—Isaiah 36; Ezekiel 36:24, 35.

K. H. S. BLANKED
BY ALBANY HIGHUp-River Team Outclasses Them in
All Departments—Locals' Biggest Need in Experience.

The inter-scholastic game Saturday between K. H. S. and Albany H. S. was a veritable track meet with Albany doing the sprinting. The only allibi the Kingston boys offer is inexperience and the defeat has one redeeming feature—it was the Maroon and White's Bull Run. Unless the boys come to earth with a thud and buckle down to result-producing work, the game with Saratoga High will be another disastrous "come-down." But they have another crack at the Garnet and Gray team in this city October 22.

Coach Boyson has a wonderful team on the field and his back field proved anything but weak. The line is a stone wall and every time our boys made a charge against a seemingly weak spot they were repulsed and the yardage gained through the line was infinitesimal.

Buster Bastian was back in his position of tackle and he is also acting in the capacity of captain. He played well until Ken Davis' "Irish" asserted itself and he crashed head-on into Bastian. Bastian had no further desire to play football that day and somewhat groggily he left the field to make way for a substitute.

Bill Gormley was in his initial game Saturday. For a time Albany, seeing a new guard in play, Gormley being substituted for Snyder, ran several plays directly toward right guard only to fall back repulsed. Bill comes from Phoenix, up in the sticks, where they raise them husky; he is green but give him another week of practice.

The Maroon and White boys are good losers and they were not beaten until the whistle blew.

Coach McIntyre talked hearteningly to his team during the halves and when the boys went back into the second half it was with something akin to ferocity, and all through the last half the game took on the aspect of football and Albany worked for its gains.

A number of fans from Kingston were at the game and who says Kingston High School is lacking in sport? Three girls started for the capital on foot, depending upon numerous lifts for conveyances. And they were there too! Another youthful fan climbed aboard his bicycle at 8 a. m. and at 12.30 he was eating lunch in Albany. Is he another Kramer?

The game by quarters follows:

First Quarter.
Vogt (Kingston) kicked off to Albany, who carried ball to thirty-yard line and was downed. Albany kicked off to Kingston on their second down and Vogt was tackled on 20 yard line. Albany then held Kingston for 4 downs and McLean was forced to kick. Empe, Albany's quarterback and star open field runner, crossed line for first touchdown. Hutchins, Albany, failed to kick goal.

Albany kicked off to Kingston, who lost ball on fumble. Albany had ball and fumbled on first down. The ball was recovered by Rowland. Albany next held Kingston for downs and Empe again crossed line for touchdown. Goal kicked by Hutchins.

Kingston received ball again and was downed on 25 yard-line. Rowland next carried ball for 25 yards on forward pass. Kingston again held for downs. Albany punted on second down to Kingston. Kingston again held for downs and McLean punted. Albany's first down on Albany's 35 yard line. Albany punted again which gave Kingston touch-down and ball was brought out to 20 yard line. Kingston gained 20 yards. End of first quarter.

Second Quarter.
Kingston fumbled and Empe scooped up the ball in his arms which gave Albany third touch-down. Hutchins kicked goal. Albany again kicked off to Kingston but received ball again on downs. Albany was in turn held for downs. Kingston's ball. McLean punted. End of first half.Third Quarter.
Kingston returned to field with reawakened energy and received kick off, but lost the ball on Davis' fumble on Kingston's 25 yard line. McCarthy, Albany, ran for touch-down and Hutchins kicked goal. Albany was continually sending in fresh men. This maddened Kingston who began to display real football form. Albany again kicked to Maroon and White who were held for four downs. McLean punted. Kingston received ball again on downs. Albany intercepted forward pass. End of quarter.Fourth Quarter.
Albany kicked to Kingston who ran ball back into Albany's territory. Kingston forced to punt and Empe on long end run scored touch-down. Goal kicked.

Kingston received ball again and essayed several forward passes. Rowland completed forward pass and ran for 15 yards. Kingston still fighting when quarter ended.

HIGH SCHOOL
NEWS NOTES

Saturday, October 1 was the anniversary of the death of two Kingston High School boys who died gloriously while fighting on the Hindenberg line September 29, 1918—Aubrey Ernst and John Joyce. Beautiful floral tributes stood under their pictures at the school and the memorial tablets on tables were draped with the national banner. Today both heroes are in graves in this country. Aubrey Ernst in the Arlington National cemetery, and John Joyce in St. Mary's cemetery in this city. The two large palms that stood on either side of the rostrum in the auditorium are in memory of all of the high school boys who died in the service.

Tuesday afternoon a very important Senior meeting was held and an executive committee was elected consisting of Elizabeth Richards, Carl Schantz and Arthur Flemming. This committee in turn selected a peppy social committee to stir up pleasure for the Seniors. The members of the social committee are: John Bott, M. Rodie and Tom Rowland. The Seniors must have rings and in order to be certain of getting suitable ones a ring committee was appointed. The constituents of this committee are Carl Schantz, chairman; Estelle Rodgers, Sancher Barmann, Marion Bruckner and Kenneth Hasbrouck.

The Junior class has chosen its leader and his aides and has decided upon one thing. They are to meet every every other week. The officers are: Kenneth Le Fevre, president, Ethel Schaffer, vice-president, Roger Scott, secretary and treasurer.

The Prisma girls are to tussle with the boys of the Webster Hayne Debating Club, for they are stage a prize speaking contest. True to form the Prisma girls have invited the Freshmen girls to an apple-bobbing party and a general good time on Halloween.

The Lincoln-Douglas Debating Club met Thursday afternoon and President Mac Padden was greatly disheartened by the slim gathering. It behooves the Freshman and Sophomores to join this club if they wish to become members of the Varsity Debating team in their Junior and Senior years.

Again William Scaries has returned to K. H. S. He accompanied Mr. Dodge Thursday morning and we feel indebted to Mr. Dodge for his treat. Mr. Scaries was here for the first in 1919 and it is doubtful if the applause he received then outdid that which he received Thursday.

Friday morning another surprise was sprung upon the students. This time Mr. and Mrs. Weissman of the Metropolitan Opera Company were the "instructors." Mr. Weissman, accompanied by Mrs. Weissman at the piano rendered several charming selections on his violin. Great applause was given Mr. and Mrs. Weissman at the close of their recital.

A special assembly was called Friday afternoon of all Athletic Association members and was presided over by Mr. Buley. Mr. Buley outlined a new plan of electing officers to the associations. A committee on nominations was chosen that nominates several students for each of the unfilled positions and submits the list of nominees to the association members, who in turn select the most capable students to fill the positions. The committee stands as follows: Blair, Muller, chairman; Carl Schantz, M. Rodie, Anne Byrne and Arthur Flemming. The Grace Sage lecture will be given in the auditorium Friday evening, October 7. This lecture offers those who are not acquainted with Tarkington's works an opportunity to become so and this lecture offers to those who are acquainted with Tarkington an opportunity for expansion through Miss Sage's exquisite interpretations.

FIRE PREVENTION

Consists of removing all piles of rubbish which might attract fire, and installing fire extinguishers in your home, store and automobile. A fire extinguisher, if brought into play at the very start of the fire, will prevent an amazing dangerous conflagration.

FIRE
PREVENTION WEEK
October 3 to 10

During this week you are urged to do these very things in order to do you, your property and your community a great service. We recommend LaFrance extinguishers, made by the world's largest manufacturer of fire apparatus, and backed by a successful experience in fire fighting since 1845.

Let us furnish you with extinguishers for Fire Prevention Day.

Judgment in Boyd Damage Case Amended by Making Director General of Railroads Defendant.

Another echo of the West Shore crossing accident which occurred in March, 1918, came up before Judge Hasbrouck in special term of the supreme court Saturday. In the action of Isabelle Boyd, as administratrix of the estate of John G. Boyd, against the New York Central Railroad, the judgment was amended substituting James T. Davis, director general, as agent, under section 206 of the transportation act, as defendant.

The action was tried in December, 1918, and a jury rendered a verdict for $8,000 in favor of Mrs. Boyd against the railroad. This was affirmed by the appellate division in December, 1919. The railroad appealed to the court of appeals, which also affirmed the judgment in April, last.

Upon the motion of the railroad, William G. McAdoo, as director general of railroads, was substituted as defendant. In July last, an order was made substituting James T. Davis, as director general, as defendant in order that the judgment might be collected, it became necessary to amend the judgment so as to make James C. Davis, director general, as agent, the defendant and judgment debtor. This will permit the treasury department of the United States to pay the judgment. Mayor Canfield appeared for Mrs. Boyd, the plaintiff, and Amos Van Elten appeared for the railroad and director general.

WORLD SERIES HERE.
Paragon Player Board at Colonial Theater.

During the playing of the world's baseball series, local fans will have an opportunity of seeing every play on the field depicted on a Paragon score board at the Colonial Theater on Henry street. This board will be connected by a special Western Union telegraph wire from the grounds when each game is played.

Origin of "Beyond the Pale."
In the time of King John that part of Ireland which was subject to English rule was divided into 12 counties and the entire district was known as the Pale. From this originated the expression "beyond the pale," meaning outside the law or beyond jurisdiction. Inside the Pale, English law was acknowledged and obeyed, while the land outside was in an almost constant state of uproar and dissension.

COLONIALS NOSE OUT SCHATZ CLUB

Schwab's Batting and Throwing and Bud Culloton's Pitching in Last Part of Game Give Colonials 5-4 Game in Nine Inning Finish. Ninth inning, one man out, score 4 to 4, Bill Schwab on third with the winning run. "Bud" Culloton lays down a perfect bunt and Schwab crosses the plate. It was a fitting climax to a nerve-racking and spectacular game, the Colonials for the third successive time defeating the Schatz Club of Poughkeepsie at the Athletic Field Saturday by 5 runs to 4.

Not only did Schwab carry over the winning marker, but a great throw to the plate in Poughkeepsie's half of the ninth by the same player cut off a Schatz tally and changed the situation from one run in and two men on to no runs scored and three men out. Two were down in Poughkeepsie's last frame when McCombs singled to center. Murphy followed with another single, and McCombs went to second. Sheppard, a wicked hitter, was next up. He met one of Culloton's offerings squarely and drove it on a line to left and McCombs and Murphy went tearing around third and Schwab was on his way to the plate when Schwab picked up the ball, straightened up and shot it with rifle-like accuracy to Robins. The Kingston catcher planted the ball squarely against the Poughkeepsie's third-sacker, and Umpire Shertz yelled "Out at plate" while the crowd went wild over the play.

Many games that have been played at the Athletic Field this year have been so bitterly contested as was Saturday's game. Neither team could gain a decided lead at any stage of the game, the Kingston team being constantly on the defensive. The Schatz Club had a one run lead at two or three stages of the game, but the Colonials kept fighting their way to a tie, and finally put over the winning score.

Kingston's appreciation of the sportsmanship of Mr. Schatz, owner of the Schatz Club, was well expressed before the game. On behalf of the Colonial team, John M. Cashin presented a beautiful floral horseshoe to Mr. Schatz for the Schatz Club. Then, on behalf of Manager Brown, of the Colonials, a loving cup was presented to Mr. Schatz. The Poughkeepsie Club owner expressed his thanks in a well made speech. Manager Brown had the Citizens' Band on hand for the occasion, several appropriate tunes being rendered by the musicians.

The game opened with "Dick" Williams, speed-ball king of the local team, opposing Campion, likewise a fast ball merchant. Williams hurried in beautiful style, errors behind him being responsible for two of the three runs scored off him. In the eighth, Schatz filled the bases, with no one out on a walk and two bunts that were not heeded in time. The Bridge City men were planning a bunting attack, but Captain Schirrick crossed their purposes by putting Culloton in the box. "Bud" being better able to handle bunts than Williams. The strategy worked out successfully, Culloton pulling out of the hole with one run being scored on a sacrifice fly.

Schatz put the Colonials in a hole in the second inning, sending two men over the plate. With one down McCarthy singled for Poughkeepsie's first hit. Doyle went out, but Deegan missed Davis's grounder, McCarthy reaching third. Hempe laced out a two-bagger and McCarthy and Davis counted.

Deegan led off Kingston's half of the second with a long two-base hit to center. Connors sent Matty to third with a single, and Rice completed the job by hitting to second, Deegan scoring on the play.

Kingston went into even terms with the visitors in the third. Fitzgerald doubled for a starter and McAuliffe sacrificed him along a base. Robins walked. Deegan sent Sheppard back for his long fly and Fitzgerald crossed the plate.

Poughkeepsie earned a run off Williams in the fifth. Beal reached first on his single, and made the half-way station on McCombs's sacrifice. Sheppard sent Schatz into the lead when his single drove Beal over.

The "lucky" seventh netted Kingston another rally. Schwab led off with a single. Moore laid down a bunt and Schwab went to second. Williams failed to advance him, but Leo Fitzgerald was on the job. "Fitz" got his third hit of the day; this time a hot single to center, and Schwab made his way homeward.

The eighth and ninth innings saw many nervous systems shattered and many strong voices grow husky. Sheppard waited Williams out and was rewarded by a base on balls. McCarthy laid down a bunt and beat Rice's throw, both runners being safe. Doyle followed with another bunt just inside the first base line, advancing both runners and reaching first himself. At this juncture Culloton relieved Williams. "Bud's" first act was to strike out Davis. Hempe hit to right, Moore making a beautiful catch of the ball. "Kids" throw home was perfect, but Sheppard beat the ball to the plate. Robins relayed to Rice, who caught McCarthy trying to make third.

Again the Colonials went out and fought their way to a tie. Robins reached Doyle's territory when Davis threw over Murphy's head on Jack's grounder. Deegan's single sent Robins to third. Cy Connors added his mite by sacrificing Jack home.

Poughkeepsie's half of the ninth, with its exciting finish, furnished some interesting moments, but Kingston's half was equally as tense. Schwab, who had saved the game a minute before, stepped up to the plate and slammed the first ball pitched between right and center for two bases. Moore put Schwab in a position to score by a neatly placed bunt. With Culloton up the Poughkeepsie players expected "Bud" to try for a sacrifice fly, but "Bud" pulled the unexpected and sent a neat bunt down the first base line. Schwab crossing the rubber as Campion picked up the ball.

Benjamin Franklin's Thrift. The thrift of Benjamin Franklin is reflected in his will. In giving his daughter the "King of France" picture, set in 100 diamonds, he requests, "that she would not form any of these diamonds into ornaments, either for herself or daughters, and thereby introduce or communicate the expensive jewels in this country." He concludes his will with this clause: "I would have my body buried with an little expense or ceremony as may be." writes E. A. Hangerford in the Thrift Magazine.

Alphabet Traced to Phoenicians. Utterly different as appear the various alphabets of the world—the ancient Greek, the square Hebrew of the Jews, the elaborate Sanskrit, the North alphabet of the Arabic speaking peoples—they may be all traced back to a single germ—the A. B. C. of the Phoenicians traders, who for facilitating their far-flung commercial enterprises created what was a sort of universal shorthand by a system of selection of symbols from Egyptian and other forms of picture writing and gradually developed the broad generalization of an alphabet.—Chicago Journal.
